PADRE CAGERS AT GONZALES TONIGHT

After only two weeks practice, the Carmel High School basketball teams dip into league play at Gonzales tonight. Two practice games against Fremont and Gilroy has served to acquaint the Padres with the court layout and the position of the baskets. Friday night's opener with Fremont looked more like a noon hour pickup game than organized basketball, but in Saturday's games at Gilroy, the play had smoothed out considerably. The deft ball-handling and brilliant play-making potential of guards Overin and Updike could make the red and gray varsity a powerful offensive outfit. In the Doelman twins, Lannie Doolittle, Stu Emery, Ken Wighman, and Skipper Lloyd, the Padres have enough height to offer stubborn resistence around both backboards.

Gonzales tried their hand against Salinas and received brutal treatment from the classy Cowboy quintet. However, the Spartans are always tough on their own court and appear to take a particular delight in beating Carmel whenever the Padres appear in Gonzales. Last year, the Padres were pennant bound until they invaded the Gonzales crackerbox to be dumped out of the championship running.

The Padre Babes have been holding long scrimmage sessions to find the right scoring combination to light the bulbs on the scoreboard. The improved play of Red Wolverton and Tommy Brosnan has added strong competition for guards Campbell and Grant. Both Wolverton and Brosnan are now to the hoop sport but are rapidly catching onto the idea of the game. Against Gilroy, the hustling Wolverton played a fine floor game and rebounded like a veteran. In tonight's clash with Gonzales, the little Padres will have to play mighty sound basketball as the Spartan Babes upset the highly regarded Salinas lights last week.

LOBOS SCARE SANTA ROSA BUT LOSE DECISION, 14 TO 0

An overconfident Santa Rosa Junior College eleven gave up plenty of yardage to the scrappy Monterey Lobos in the Northern California JC playoff at Santa Rosa last Friday night, but their tremendous depth finally paid off and brought them a 14-0 victory. The Lobos completely dominated the play in the first half, twice penetrating inside the five-yard stripe of the hosts. The sharp running thrusts of Al Mathews, John Anastasia, and Tom Handley punctured the Santa Rosa defense and kept the north section champs in hot water for all the first half.

Santa Rosa depth began to tell in the second half as they passed for one tally and scampered 30 yards for another. The brilliant defensive play of Carmel's Dick Weer was largely instrumental in holding the famed Santa Rosa running attack in check. The hard-charging Weer spent lots of time in the Santa Rosa backfield and earned the plaudits of all the coaches and sports writers present.

CCAL B-BALL JAMBOREE TOMORROW NIGHT

Basketball fans are in for a bargain fare tomorrow night at the Monterey High School gym where the annual CCAL Basketball Jamboree takes place. All the teams in the Coast Counties Athletic League can be seen in action during the three-hour session. Drawings for opponents will be made on the floor and each team will play a 15-minute quarter. B division schools will be matched against other B schools and the A division will draw an A opponent. Carmel High School is slated to play the first quarter at 7:30, as players and rooters are whisked right after the game. All the teams in both divisions are evenly matched this season and basketball fans are assured some torrid competition in all the games.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

No garden should ever be started without an over-all plan. Anyone can make this plan, provided he is familiar with the habits, height and needs of particular shrubs. I have seen more tragedies brought about by the over-generous neighbor who, in his desire to help, brings in planting material from his own garden. Certain shrubs demand shade, but the over-zealous friend fails to give these instructions, or worse, he himself, does not know the habits of the plant material he offers. The result? Chaos.

It is a delicate thing to refuse such a friendly gesture from a new neighbor, so in goes a lot of truck that in time is going to cause the new home-maker to have a coniption fit. Shrubs that were in their infancy when planted may grow to gargantuan proportions, covering windows and even doors; they may soar to the roof top, or where tall shrubs are indicated, midgets may result.

The dominant factors of planning a new garden are few and not difficult to discover. Shade plants in the shade, sun-loving plants in the sun; tall-growing shrubs where coverage is indicated, and low shrubs to fill corners close to the house. You can glance at any horticultural encyclopedia for the requirements and habits of all growing material, and you can do the job yourself.

Just take a look at gardens you pass in this locality. Some are neat and aesthetically pleasing; others are so crowded and jumbled that one loses composure even when passing. The honest-to-goodness natural gardens in Carmel, are quite in keeping with tradition and local concepts. These plots are not gardens; they are wild growth that not only hide the dwelling, but mass themselves into a veritable jungle. Fine, if you want that. It can be done and the price is very moderate.

But the fellow who thinks he is executing a landscape and starts mussing up his property without a

Catherine Winslow's Coming Recital Is A Tribute To Otto Bardarson And His Ideals Of Education

The coming piano recital by Catherine Winslow at the Carmel High School Auditorium on December 17 is eagerly anticipated for several reasons. In the first place it is offered by teacher and pupil as a tribute to the late Otto W. Bardarson and his ideals of education. In the second place it brings into actuality the accomplishment of that for which he worked so long and so faithfully: the developments of potentialities through wise guidance and a comprehensive survey of the child's whole personality.

THE LATE OTTO BARDARSON

In coming to Carmel 22 years ago Mr. Bardarson sought to carry out a program based upon a true understanding of each child, his capabilities, talents and problems. He brought this understanding into every relationship of the school, that of teacher and pupil, teacher and parent, pupil and pupil. It was his aim to create an atmosphere of creative harmony, free enough to allow for the impetuous nature of the child, and firm enough to keep it wisely within bounds. He believed that each child was a special study, and those of us who consulted him as parents well remember his wise tolerance and his unshakeable faith in the child's basic goodness. Immediately he took sides with the child and sought to explain him to those who were concerned about him.

To use Clara Kellogg's words: "It was only after years of association however, that one could come to know the full breadth and depth, strength and beauty of his character. There have been difficulties and what to some would have been discouragements, but I have never seen Mr. Bardarson lose his poise or show resentment and rancor, or swerve one hair's breadth from the path he had marked out as the best path to follow. In all the fourteen years and a half that he has guided our schools he has had just one clear purpose, to give to every boy and girl the fullest possible opportunity to develop his powers and to become an honorable, useful and happy members of society."

It is with these creative ideas in mind that Catherine Winslow's teacher, Jesusa Guidi Fremont has trained the young pianist. Her recital work with Corlot has only confirmed the principles on which she has based her teaching. The result is a student who plays creatively. She reveals through her performance of the works of Bach, Beethoven and Chopin, her own intelligent and sensitive perception of the inner musical form, brought into life through the ever-new interpretation of the individual. —D.H.

Peninsula Male Chorus To Appear In Sunday Program

Under the direction of John Farr, the Peninsula Male Chorus will be heard in a program of choral music Sunday evening at the Carmel High School.

The chorus is composed of local men, a number of whom have been associated with the group since its organization in 1939. Along with these is a group of young men with excellent voices from the Navy Line School.

Margaret Aikenhead, a local teacher of piano and accompanist for the group for the past three years, will be at the piano.

Sharing the program will be Jack Loren Lindismith who will play several selections on the Hammond organ. Mr. Farr has a well arranged program. Selections will be: Roadways, Clark; The Turtle Dove, Vaughn Williams with Will Hyde as soloist; Gloucester Wassail, Tom Scott; Lamp in the West, Parker; Sing Me a

Joanne Nix To Present Program Of Classical Ballet At Sunset Dec. 16

Joanne Nix, former member of the Sadler Wells Ballet, is presenting a concert by the Carmel Ballet Academy Saturday night, December 16, at Sunset Auditorium. The classical ballet program which starts at 7:30 p.m., is the first of its kind to appear in Carmel, for all the dancers are local and this is the first ballet company to be organized in Carmel.

Most of the dancers are children, students of the Carmel Ballet Academy, but adults will also participate, and Joanne Nix will appear in The Swan Ballet.

Joanne Nix, who comes from England, received her training at the Irving Academy in Cheltenham, then the Sadler Wells Ballet. She danced with Anton Dolin of Sadler Wells at Covent Garden, and appeared at the Grosvenor House Hotel in London as a specialty dancer. She worked with Madama Kamarova as assistant dance-director in London, Paris and New York, and toured all over Europe and South America doing ballroom and ballet exhibitions. She danced at the Mayfair in London, at Deaville, France, and at the Atlantico Casino in Rio de Janeiro.

In 1939, Joanne Nix came to America, and a year later she met her husband, Dudley Nix, in San Francisco. (Her maiden name was Joanne Gilbey, and under this name she appeared with the Sadler Wells Ballet and toured Europe and South America).

Among the participants will be Renee Wurzmann, Robbin Burnham, Donna Work, Pamela Beales, Wendy Burnham, Gail Da Roza, Bonnie Wager, Joy Walker, Suzan Trevvett, Judy Williams, Pam Williams, Pamela Gamble, Rosalie d Maggio, Sibyl Kocher, Lynn Campbell, Elizabeth Johnson, Sherrie Nix, Bia Osmont, Judy Williams, Gay Goffinett, Julie Campbell, and Francesca Farr. Joanne Nix, as previously mentioned, will dance in the Swan Ballet at the end of the program.

FOLK DANCE PARTY

The Folk-Dancing Class which meets at Carmel High School will have a Christmas party on December 19. The party will be at the high-school, and starts at 8 o'clock.

All Carmel Invited To Xmas Play

The traditional Nativity Play is again in production at Sunset School. All energies of students and teachers are being put forth to make this year's play to be presented December 14, 7:30 o'clock in the Sunset Auditorium, the fine entertainment that previous presentations have been.

Established through precedent, the play will present various scenes from the Bible story of the birth of Christ. It is felt that the story is of such beauty that it has never grown tiresome over the many years. Variety is added through the design of the stage settings, lighting and different means of introduction for background.

This year's play is introduced by the Three Kings who are returning home after having presented their gifts to the new born King. They discuss their experiences, which reveal various scenes of the Nativity story, presented in tableaus.

Of equal interest is the musical portion of the program. The choir of over 60 students, directed by music teacher Arthuf Holman, has always been of professional quality, and could very well provide an evenings entertainment without any dramatic surroundings. The choir will sing traditional Christmas carols during and between tableaus, that heighten and intensify the mood of the scenes.

The cast of characters includes Sandra Smith as Mary; Mervin Sutton as Joseph; John Thompson, Walter Marx, Skipper Marquard as Kings; Don Smith, John Dalzell, Charles Dawson as Shepherds; Reed Putnam as Inn Keeper; Pamela Dixon, Cary Edson, Sherian Emery, Hilary Teague, Robin Burnham as Angels; Bob Wise as Herod; Dick Leutzinger, Steven Littig, Bob Durbrow as Romans; Suzie Lawrence, Helen Ross, Vickey Davies as Court Women. The student director is Cynthia Cox.

Joe's Taxi Depot Available Again To Bus Riders

Within the next week, Carmel passengers on Bay Rapid Transit Company buses will be able to board them once again at Joe's Taxi, following a report of the settlement of the controversy by City Attorney Thomas K. Perry at Wednesday night's council meeting.

For the past two years passengers have had to wait at bus stops and there have been complaints from places of business in those areas concerning the congestion. Passengers themselves have also issued complaints because the bus stops are not under cover.

Following a request recently by Perry on behalf of the city, a settlement of the question was reached by the Jack Geisen Associates and representatives of the bus company.

Sanitary Board Offers Settlement To Aileen McGee

The Carmel Sanitary District Board agreed to settle out of court their suit for right of way against Miss Aileen McGee, at their meeting Monday night, offering to hook her property up with the new sewer line in exchange for the right of way. Eugene Harrar represented Miss McGee.

They granted sanitary district employees $20 a month raise, $25 raise to treatment works superintendent, Chrales Askew.

The board took under advisement Secretary William Satchell's recommendation that the $30 fee for sewer connection be abolished.

Xmas Sub Station Opens Monday; Woosley Presides In Lobby But Won't Reveal Plans For Costume

On Monday Carmel will begin its Christmas trek to the auxiliary post office to pick up packages. Postmaster Ernest Bixler has rented the old telephone building on Dolores and Seventh Streets for the package dispensary and put Robert Miller in charge, since Melvin Taylor, who presided over the "do not open until Christmas" items last year is now in the Army.

Carmelites will receive package notices in their boxes along with their regular mail and will proceed to Seventh and Dolores to collect.

Only ordinary and insured packages will be handled in this manner. General delivery, C.O.D. and postage due package mail will be held at the main post office, as will undeliverable, R.F.D. and undeliverable special delivery packages.

Assistant Postmaster Fred Myler urges all post office customers who have already received package notices to collect as soon as possible this week end at the main post office so their packages won't have to be carted to the sub station. Once the sub station has been established, promptness in calling there after receiving notices will facilitate the movement of Christmas mail.

On Monday Bill Woolsey will be at the scales and table in the post office lobby to weigh packages to be mailed. He would not reveal what costume he will adopt for the occasion. Last season his originality in headgear considerably relieved tension during the holiday rush.

Saturday the parcel post window will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Starting Monday, it will remain open every week day, including Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through December 23.

As the post office force plunges into its holiday workout, Mylar issues a final appeal to address packages fully and correctly, and put return addresses on them. Extra people hired to help fend off the Christmas avalanche do not know everybody's box number by name as do some of the oldtimers on the staff.

City Council Votes To Oust Norman Duxbury

On the recommendation of Street Commissioner Gene Ricketts, the city council decided Wednesday night to serve Norman Duxbury with notice to vacate the living quarters at the Forest Theater within two weeks.

Duxbury has been living in the city-owned building rent free for a year and a half, with the understanding that he would be custodian of the theater. Ricketts, after inspecting the theater last week with Street Superintendent William Askew, reported that "Duxbury leaves the doors unlocked. Stuff has fallen down, and he hasn't put it up or repaired it."

Duxbury created a small flurry here last month when it was revealed that he was registered as a Communist, but couldn't be ousted on that count, because he was willing to sign the Loyalty Oath.

Other business of the meeting:

Council decided to return the chore of handling traffic ticket fines to City Judge George P. Ross. Police department has been accepting fines for minor violations for over a year.

The street superintendent was instructed to take his trucks and crew into Del Monte Forest, cut Christmas trees and distribute them to the merchants to set up in the flag holes along Ocean avenue and Dolores street. Mayor Allen Knight, complimenting the businessmen on Ocean avenue between Lincoln and Monte Verde on the beautiful job they had done decorating their trees, suggested that the other merchants do likewise when the trees are distributed.

The city Christmas tree at Ocean and Junipero will be decorated by the street department as usual and lighted on December 15.

Shops Cooperate In Benefit Fashion Show Saturday Night

Stunning clothes, beautiful models and an excellent dinner—that is the order for the evening Saturday when 12 shops are cooperating in a fashion show to be held at Pine Inn for the benefit of the Carmel Youth Center and the Mission Restoration Fund.

The dinner is scheduled to begin at 7:30 and the fashion show begins at 8 o'clock. Tickets, which are 5 dollars, may be obtained at Pine Inn. Commentator will be Al Railton.

Each shop is having one model who will show two or more dresses. There will be everything from sports outfits to the most glamorous of evening dresses, as well as a selection of sub-teen outfits.

Shops cooperating in the event, which is the top fashion show of the season are: Banbox, Cinderella Shop, Gail Coupe, Lynn's Ltd., Gladys McCloud, Yarn Tree, Carmel Dress Shop, Country Shop, Harriet Duncan, Lanz, Maxine's and the Silver Thimble.

Models will be Mrs. Margaret Parkhurst, Sirkka Minyard, Mrs. Della Lou McCreary, Mrs. Anthony Kastros, Miss Minnette Franke, Jeri Champlin, Joanne Nix, Miss Sonia De Vries, Leila Peterman, Mrs. C. W. Whitney, Elizabeth Moore, Sherry Emery and Blanche Schmitz.

Peninsula May Have Garbage Disposal District

The prospect of a Peninsula-wide garbage disposal district may become a reality, following a lengthy discussion of the subject at a dinner meeting held last week and attended by councilmen and city officials of Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove. The meeting was presided over by Monterey Mayor L. K. Smith.

Representatives of the County Health Department and A. B. Jacobsen, chairman of the Board of Supervisors also attended the meeting. Health Department representatives told those in attendance that the present dump which is now being used by the three cities and the unincorporated areas will probably be condemned before another year, and a solution to the problem must be found before that time.

The three city attorneys were instructed unofficially to draw up enabling acts to be passed by the state legislature which would permit the formation of the garbage disposal district.

Also discussed at the meeting was the possibility of instituting a county-wide sales tax for the reason of equalizing the impact of expenses upon fringe areas as well as cities.

ALL SAINTS' DEDICATION SERVICE DATE CHANGED

The date for the Dedication service of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Carmel, originally set for Sunday, December 10, has now been changed to Thursday, December 21. Final confirmation of this date and plans for the service will be announced later.

Edward Taylor

Edward L. Taylor, one of the older residents of Carmel, passed away at his home on North Lincoln street Wednesday at 2 a.m.

Mr. Taylor was born in Coshocton, Ohio, March 16, 1869, and spent his early boyhood there. He was graduated from the law department of Valpraiso University, Valpraiso, Indiana, practiced law a short time, then went into business. For 10 years he was manager of a stone quarry and road building firm in Baltimore, Maryland. Later he was in the mercantile business at Bloomingburg, Ohio. In 1919 he was married to Mrs. Daisy Nettleton at Greeley, Colorado. A few years later they came to California. While traveling through the the state in 1924 they came to Carmel and like many others, both were impressed by the natural beauty of Carmel. They decided to stay and build a house.

Mr. Taylor was with the Triangle Realty Company on Dolores street for several years. He helped build many of the houses that were built here during the late twenties and early thirties. For some years he and Mrs. Taylor have had their business, Taylor Cottages on Lincoln street near their home.

Mr. Taylor was a member of the Wayfarer Church, Past Master of Baltimore Lodge A and F Masons, member of Masonic Lodge, Pacific Grove, No. 331, a thirty-second degree Mason.

His retirement from business did not mean his withdrawal from community life. He maintained a lively interest in the activities of the city council, appearing before them when occasions arose to represent the interests of property owners in his area of town.

One of the joys of his later years was his garden. The Pine Cone office has been brightened many times by his gifts of flowers.

He is survived by his wife, Daisy B. Taylor; a brother, John Taylor of Baltimore, Maryland; three nephews, Frank D. Taylor, Pacific Grove, Dr. W. N. Taylor, Columbus, Ohio, Verner Taylor, San Pedro, Calif.

Services were held at Paul's Mortuary this morning with Dr. K. Filmore Gray of the Wayfarer Church officiating.

Carmel Work Center Weekly Notes . . .

By Carol Tindell

If you are stuck with your Christmas list we'll let you borrow some of our ideas. We have lots of smart little gifts for little money.

There are Duane Matterson's Egg Bakers made of stoneware (can be put in the oven) for only $1.25 each. Then there are glistening Snow Coasters which are wonderful for the holidays . . . they look so much like Christmas . . . and are 6 for $1.00. Joan Savo's cocktail napkins are another smart gift . . . $2.50 for a set of 6. These are the cute little napkins with the dogs and cats on them. Another good gift idea are Katherine Allen's colorful individual nut and mayonnaise bowls . . . and have you seen Harold Landaker's amusing ash trays and figures?

Milton Williams' Candelabras and Hurricane Lamps make very extra-special gifts. You can see Mr. Williams' work and paintings on exhibit at our Pebble Beach Shop.

Have you had any trouble finding us? Some friends asked the other day and when we told them, exclailmed "Oh, where the telephone office used to be." So if you haven't been in to see us yet, please do, we'd like to meet you.

William Sharpe

The ashes of the late First Lieut. William Granville Sharpe were scattered over the Ventana mountains last Monday by an army plane. His close friend, Thomsen J. Hudson, son of Admiral and Mrs. Hudson of Point Lobis, came down on the plane from Oakland Air Base.

Born in Monterey March 15, 1923, William Sharpe grew up in Carmel and down the coast, was graduated from Sunset School and Monterey High School. He joined the air corps shortly after World War II started, and became first pilot of a B-24 with the Eighth Air Force. He was based in England, and was killed March 18, 1944, in a mission over Lake Constance, Germany.

An Episcopal service was held in the St. Gilles' Memorial Chapel in Brussels, Belgium, September 26. Colonel Matthew H. Imrie, constabulary chaplain, was fully vested as he read St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans and the 23rd Psalm. The service was followed by cremation, and the following morning, Colonel Imrie conducted a Requiem Celebration of the Holy Communion.

The ashes were sent to the United States, and in accordance with the late Lieutenant's wishes were scattered over the Ventana mountains where he had spent so much time hiking in the years before the war.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Frida G. Sharpe of Bixby Lading, and his sister, Mrs. Patrick Wall of Monterey.

SUCCESSFUL USO DANCE

About 1100 people attended the Armed Services Third Annual Hospitality Ball over at the Soldier's Club at Fort Ord last Saturday night. The USO Ball was for the purpose of raising enough money to entertain 15,000 servicemen at the YMCA during the Christmas holidays. The ball was successful; and enough money was raised.

There were six vaudeville acts, and music was provided by the Sixth Division 12-piece band.

General and Mrs. Robert Fredericks led the Grand March.

Ed Cochrane of Carmel was the Chairman of the Board of Management for the affair.

New Trial Asked In Rent Ceiling Case

A hearing for a motion for a new trial in suit brought against Col. L. W. Glazebrook and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Viebrock, by Mr. and Mrs. James Harris and Charles Stoops has been set for December 22 in Judge Anthony Brazil's superior court.

The suit involves alleged misrepresentation of facts concerning rent ceiling on property bought in 1949 by the Harris' and Stoops from the Viebrocks. The sale was handled by Col. Glazebrook.

A jury on November 10 awarded $9,500 to the Harrises and Charles Stoops, and the defendents have asked for a new trial.

Col. Glazebrook is represented by George P. Ross; Harris and Stoops by Robinson and Whittlesey and Viebrock by Charles Barrett of Hudson, Martin Ferrante and Street.

NO MORE BOXES

The new unit of boxes at the post office were snapped up like Rose Bowl tickets, and a waiting list is forming again, as of December 1.

PART V

BY E. CASHION MAC LENNAN

New Mexico is a land of surpassing beauty, of clear air and brilliant sunshine; in the plateau regions, of brisk winters with dry and stimulating cold and most of the year with snow covered peaks in the lofty mountain ranges.

Space is the keynote of the land; there are vast limitless stretches of plain and of the desert with rugged buttes, high mesas, and purple distances. And it has the added interest of human life lived here for countless ages. It is a land of four dimensions, the fourth being dept in time. Yet for all its historic age most of it is still a frontier, as it has been since Coronado's conquest 400 years ago. It holds a particular fascination for artists as here are found three separate distinct cultures; that of the Indian; next, of Spain, and finally, the Anglo-American, each with its own art expression. Suddenly, without warning, one may step from modern America into Old Spain, or into aboriginal territory, within the space of a few miles.

Sante Fe, which started life in 1609 under the name of La Villa de la Santa Fe de San Francisco, has all the colorful contrasts of varied race, of age, of art, and architecture; its ancient narrow streets are redolent with deeds and memories. The town is built on the site of a Tano Indian village; the famous old plaza was laid out according to plans made by the King of Spain; the Pueblo-Spanish (a combination of Indian and Spanish) is the style of architecture most persistent, and the later Americans have introduced improvements in sanitation and paved streets, beside such innovations as stop and go signs, taxes on land and on most everything else.

Though Mr. Mac Lennan and I arrived in Sante Fe in a snow storm, the snow soon melted and warm spring days followed. The cloud formations were the most striking I have seen, and I made many wet flowing water-color studies of them, working rapidly as they were ever changing. And I found much appealing subject matter along some of the narrow winding streets, in the outlying fringes of the town, lined with old adobe houses rich in patina and with haphazard gardens, largely volunteer, self-propagating ones.

One day, eager to explore neighboring settlements, and being without a car because of gas rationing, I tried to board a bus filling up with passengers at a sort of depot on one of the main streets. The driver called out, "No passengers!" I replied, "But all those people are getting on, and there's plenty of room. Can't I go, too?" "This is a government bus," he returned. Determined to get on, I went into the station to buy a ticket and to learn where the passengers were going. But "no soap." And only a long time later did I learn why I was "de trop"; the bus was for government personnel only, and was bound for the Los Alamos atomic works.

In Santa Fe we had several favorite haunts. One was the plaza where we drowsed or I made sketches of the native habitues, and where on Sundays we listened to the band and enjoyed watching the strolling, varied population, promenading being an "old Spanish custom" which we had witnessed in Spain and Majorca.

Another favorite place of ours was the Palace of the Governors, built in the shape of a hollow square with a lovely grassy patio in the "hallow," where we sunned ourselves on cool days and of course made many visits inside to enjoy the historic exhibits.

Still another favorite place was the New Mexico State Art Museum, a fine example of the Pueblo-Spanish style, where current exhibitions of New Mexico's painters and sculptors were "on show," as well as an interesting permanent collection of the work of earlier American artists who pioneered here, and also of the native Indian art. Through the efforts of Bellows and Henri and Hewett this art museum was established in 1917 and is unique in its policy of allowing free exhibition space to all artists of the state.

The American art movement in New Mexico started in 1858, and gradually more and more painters fascinated by the paintable landscape about the city and by the Indians and their primitive manner of life, came to Sante Fe, among the later comers were Georgia O'Keefe, John Sloan, and Randay Davey. There is as yet no characteristic school of art in Sante Fe. Most of the artists brought with them their own training and their own temperaments. The latest arrivals, the expressionists, are trying to catch the free rhythms, and express the modern moods, of this exciting country.

The Indian art on display in the Palace of the Governors dates from the aboriginal period, and in it we could study its evolution in draughtsmanship and complexity through the centuries. A strong American-Indian school, dating al-

Erica Franke's Show Refreshing; Combines Delicacy With Strength

By Rosalind Sharpe Wall

Everyone who went to the prevue of the Erica Franke show at the Monterey Peninsula Craft Center last Saturday was amazed that so young an artist should display such fine craftsmanship. But it was not only that . . . Erica Franke's drawings, of the Monterey wharf, of Pop Ernst's of Alvarado Street, of Santa Cruz pleasure-domes and beach casinos, have something to say. In the classic manner, they seem to exist in a light that is timeless, in a space that has no relation to any other space because it is complete in itself.

They are delicate, they are finely drawn, they are extremely sensitive, and yet they have great strength. Her architectural drawings, particularly, are amazing. One feels the whole weight and structure.

Particularly lovely was her view of Pop Ernst's called Afternoon Light. From the beach (which seems to be strewn with strange objects, dead-looking things, very very quiet) one sees the building rise, but it is an isolated building; there is nothing around it. Erica Francke has removed everything superfluous, and so one feels that for the first time one has seen Pop Ernst's. Her Tinsel, a building near Alvarado Street with tawdry looking Christmas decorations strung across it, has a curious charm, and her two wash-drawings of Santa Cruz, Pleasure Dome and Casino might as easily be Italy or the Riviera as Santa Cruz, and yet they are unmistakably Santa Cruz. But somehow she manages to get the essence of a thing, so that even if it is one place it seems to be all places. One beach-casino becomes any beach-casino anywhere, because she has touched the core of the experience, of the seeing and feeling.

Another haunting and unforgettable one is her House with Woman, also of Monterey. In this drawing a woman stands before a house . . . it is a Monterey house and perhaps it is an Italian woman in Monterey, but the whole thing is timeless; it might have been hundreds of years ago or in another country just as easily as now and here.

Her use of color is interesting, too. Her water-colors, many of them designs for stage sets, are delightfully rococo and Italienne. One that was of particular note was The Tower, in which two ghostly figures looking rather like gladiators stand in front of stone steps; there are columns, a big stone lion . . . but the lion seems much more real than the figures.

Erica Francke is only 23 years old, but she has spent most of her life studying art. She studied with Kunioshi and Morris Kantor at the Art Students League from the time she was 18 when she went to Italy. She spent four years in Italy, mostly in Florence, Venice and Rome, and studied at the Academia di Belli Arti in Venice. But she was disappointed with the academies in Italy. She found them too modern. Everybody was painting in the expressionistic manner, ignoring the classic rules, and she had expected to find something else in Italy.

It was Leo Stein, brother of Gertrude, who finally taught her what she had been looking for. "Stein taught me to see", she says. "He taught me to look at one picture—for hours. Or to walk around for hours and look — I found there was a sudden vision. That's what everything I'm doing now comes from, this sudden vision". Before she met Stein, she did "silly things, abstractions"; afterwards she turned to the classic drawings she is doing now.

Peninsula Pets Opens Gift Shop On Lincoln Street

Peninsula Pets, Inc. has opened a gift shop in Lincoln Street in the first block south of Ocean Avenue. It is on the ground floor of the house which was formerly the studio of the late De Neale Morgan. The shop will be open from 10 to 4 every day and on Saturdays there will be a food sale.

This little shop realizes a long time ambition of Bess Prewett who is well known on the Peninsula for work on behalf of animals. A year and a half ago Peninsula Pets, Inc. was organized for the purpose of spaying cats and dogs and finding homes for kittens and puppies. It has done magnificent work in both cases, working in association with the veterinaries of the communiity. The proceeds from the shop will augment the funds necessary to carry on the work.

At the moment the telephone has not been connected but Miss Prewett will be in the shop every morning and will carry on the work she formerly did. The new telephone number will be announced as soon as it is installed. Volunteer workers will staff the shop during the afternoon hours. It is hoped Christmas shoppers will come in and look around. Many fine articles have been contributed as well as a line of new gifts at reasonable prices.

THE POINT LOBOS LEAGUES' CHRISTMAS CARD

The Point Lobos League in its drive to purchase the Carmel River mouth beaches for a State Park has printed and sold a Christmas card for the benefit of the fund. The card was designed by Margaret Millard and appropriately had as its subject the knoll at Whalers' Cove on Point Lobos. This vignette of sea and landscape was simplified and decoratively printed in olive green on rough paper.

The 2000 cards placed on sale were completely sold within three days, netting the Point Lobos League $186.00. If there is sufficient demand for more cards a second printing will be made. Those interested should get in touch with Mrs. Millard at 7-3587 or Mr. Lyon at the Carmel Realty.

Sketching Is Fun . . .

most wholly from the beginning of the present century has taken root. Its art resembles that of the Oriental in its flat decorative character, great precision, absence of backgrounds and foregrounds, freedom from perspective, an unerring color sense, and the strangely impersonal character of the human subject.

In New Mexico, Spanish art, starting in the time of the Franciscans was almost wholly religious, consisting chiefly of painted or carved saintly images, called "santos." From this early art expression, derived from sources in the Mother country, a school has developed with its own style, in the native medium, primitive in feeling and technique, and this has become a folk art.

Taos, at the base of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains and about 75 miles from Santa Fe, is known throughout the land as an artist's colony. It was the first of several to be formed in New Mexico, and it is easy to see why artists flocked to this region. Without factories there is a very welcome quiet, the chief industries are in the field of the creative arts; and most of all the freshness and purity of its rarefied atmosphere and the clearness of its light make all colors luminous. D. H. Laurence wrote, "I think the skyline of Taos the most beautiful I have ever seen in my travels around the world. "Another reason artists came here to live, at least until recently, was the low cost of living and houses. A friend of mine, several years ago having sold a painting for $400, immediately realized her longing for a home in Taos and found a cozy little adobe for just that amount of money.

Pueblo road, bordered by fine cottonwoods (planted by the white man, who seems to be the only planter of trees for their own sake) connects the Spanish-Mexican-American town of Taos with the Indian pueblo of the same name, where there are two five-story communal dwellings surrounded by some smaller houses. These communal dwellings, one on either side of a swift flowing aspen-bordered mountain stream, are of adobe and cubistic in appearance; five cubes, one upon the other, growing smaller as they rise, and leaving a terrace on the different levels which are reached by outside ladders. There is an outside door for each "apartment," and small high unglazed openings for windows, which the pueblo cats, being very agile in jumping from the terraces up and into these apertures, find very convenient entrances to their homes.

About the village were many pole-supported tapestes (Spanish platforms) for drying grain; also these furnished shade underneath, where children were playing and dogs drowsed lazily. Outdoor bake ovens were also numerous, and squaws were busy about most of them. From a hidden room came the sounds of chanting and the muted beat of a tom-tom. Perhaps these mysterious sounds had deep signficance; the Indian men hold meetings in which they teach the boys the ancient ceremonies and traditions of the tribe; or perhaps, it was a calculated background atmosphere for the benefit of the tourists. A group of Indians in white robes was standing on the bridge over the stream, and several others, blanket-wrapped, stood in statuesque poses on the topmost roofs silhouetted against the sky. Their simularity to Arabian figures was startling.

There was a feeling of remote primeval living about this communal village, and this was heightened by the rarefied atmosphere, the dark mountain background, and the swift yet silent stream flowing past. The "elders" of the Indians take great pains to guard against the influences and changes to which their people are exposed by their proximity to the white man (tourists, townspeople, and artists), however, the young people are slipping! One Saturday afternoon we saw a long line which included many Indian men, women, boys, and girls at a movie theater anxious to see a real "western" (Hollywood style) The Sunset Trail. And we often espied the "braves" seated at lunch counters, relishing the white man's stand-by (pie and coffee) before returning to their apartments in the pueblo.

The plaza, like the hub of a wheel, was the center of the town of Taos, and radiating from it were unpaved streets laid out along the former Indian trails, and branching in many directions. Around three sides of it were stores, a hotel, some eating places, a gas station, and the movie theater. On the fourth side was a large parking lot, and here, particularly on Saturday, was the center of interest for me. Here, was my thrilling out-of-door movie. Seated on a bench in the plaza I had the entire square in view, and I was struck with the similarity of this scene (in spite of the difference in location and costumes) to the people, wagons, teams, and dogs of the Ozark region.

The Indian women (in gay shawls of cerise, carmen, or blues) and the children, traveled from the Pueblo to the town seated in the beds of the wagons; the older men in draped robes, upon the driver's seat. The young bucks usually came in on horseback. They were partial to Levis, with shirts hanging unconfirmed, their hair done up in a roll and tied with gay ribbons; and either draped around their shoulders or tied around their hips were their blankets. These latter were usually white or light in color with plaids or stripes, suspiciously resembling cotton bed-blankets from some mail order house.

The horses making up the teams were of every color and condition, and a little white mule was usually to be seen. The clear radiant sky overhead, the ochre buildings and walls, the gay shawls of the squaws, the activity in the parking square made a brilliant unstaged pageant which I recorded in several large water colors; and I caught many action sketches as the women went about their errands. Their white wrapped leggings and moccasins made an interesting detail. The Indian men stood about in groups here and there, visiting or perhaps making dates for posing with some artists; and the children were having their treats of ice cream cones or bags of candy.

Hiring the only taxi in the village, a Ford of ancient vintage with all leather gone from the seats (we actually sat on horsehair and springs) driven by a very obliging young Mexican who wanted to stop and show us everything along the way, we went to church of St. Francis of Assisi in Ranchos de Taos. This church is an unfailing favorite of artists, several miles from Taos in an old Indian farming section. I have seen renderings of it by many painters, each from a different angle, and of course with different intrepretations.

On the front of the church, built of adobe, are two squat towers, one a little higher than the other, with bells in each. From the rear, the view seen from the highway, it appears almost Egyptian, or, in certain lights, a complete abstract object and more like a natural formation of the earth than a man made structure. The black shawled, black garbed women entering the church, the saddled horses at the hitching posts, the dark Sangre de Cristo Mountains beyond with ever changing cloud formations above added up to a richly dramatic whole. And while our driver slept in the car (he never missed an opportunity for this) and Mr. Mac Lennan attended Mass inside, I made many pencil sketches of details and a color rendering of this exhilarating subject.

Shortly after this, anxious to turn my winter's work into exhibition form for an invited show at the Santa Barbara Museum of Art, with many regrets we returned to Santa Fe for a few days extra visit before heading west "for home."

Almost Everything uses WATER

Almost everything consumes an amazing amount of water each day. The importance of water in Nature's plan is really astounding. Take vegetables, for instance. They are drinking constantly, always reaching for a quick one. In fact, they drink so much they themselves are mostly water. Corn, for example, is 75.4% water, carrots 88.2%, tomatoes 94.3%.

To provide all the water needed by people and things in a community such as this requires expert knowledge, 24-hour-a-day supervision, and the investment of a great deal of money for equipment. Water must be gathered, stored, kept safe for consumption, regularly tested and finally distributed through a complicated system of pipes, pumps and valves. And the price you pay for it is so low (less than ten cents a ton) that, for value received, water is one of today's best bargains.

GRADE SCHOOL NOTES

CHI-MO

Once upon a time upon a high mesa there lived a little girl named Chi-mo. She often went to the desert to play. She loved the little lizards that lived on the desert sand. But she wished that she had a pony she could ride. Oh, how she wished that! "Oh, oh, oh," she would say. How she wished.

One day she met a little boy on the desert. His name was Mepi. One day she thought she would ask Mepi if he would go with her to the trading post and buy some candy to eat. He said he would go. Chi-mo's mother asked if they would like a ride to the trading post with her. They said they would, so Chi-mo's mother hitched the oxen to the wagon. Then they started off.

Chi-mo got some candy, and Mepi got some cookies. Then they started home. It so came about that it was Chi-mo's birthday. She was very excited all the way home.

When Chi-mo got home from the trading post, she found that for a gift her mother gave her a pony! She said thank you so many times her mother thought she would never stop! —Jennie Keith Hill.

CHI-WEE AND MOHO

One day Chi-Wee, a little Indian girl, ran down the mesa trail to the sandy desert below. She was going to see one of her best friends. Her name wah Moho. She lived on another mesa just like Chi-Wee's.

It was a long way to Moho's pueblo, and the desert was hot, but Chi-wee didn't mind that at all. She got there just about noon time.

When Moho saw Chi-Wee, she said, "Let's ride the donkey." So they rode the donkey for awhile. But suddenly the donkey gave a big "Hee-haw" and galloped away, and I've never seen her since!

—John Durein.

CHI-WEE AND THE GHOST

One morning, when Chi-Wee had done her work, she went to the woods, and a ghost came out and chased her all around the woods. Chi-Wee ran and ran. She ran to the pueblo, and the ghost ran away. —Curtis Oldham.

MOHO AND THE BLUE STONE

Moho's mother told her not to touch the blue stone. But one morning Moho wanted to wear the blue stone. When she was about to put the blue stone on, her mother came in, and, in surprise, she said, "Moho! What are you doing with my blue stone?" Moho said, "I wanted to wear it this morning, but I thought you would be mad. But I did so want to wear it this morning!" Mother said, "You may wear it, Moho." Then Moho was happy.

OUR CAMP AT BIG SUR

Mr. Blee's class is going to Big Sur in May. We will stay for five days, sleeping on the ground. If it rains while we are there we will sleep indoors.

There is going to be a nurse, a cook, and two or three counselors. We will have a physical check-up before we go and after we are there.

We are going to have regular class work. We will go hiking and study conservation. At night there will be a campfire program. Every night we will sing songs, tell stories, and have lots of fun.

We will be the first class on the Monterey Peninsula to go on an outdoor school camping trip. We hope that everyone in the class can go. —Champe Tweed.

THE FIREFLY

A little light is going by,
It's going up to see the sky.

It never could have thought of it
To have a little bug all lit,
And made to go on wings.

—Sharon Nielsen.

SUN AND RAIN

The wind is blowing high in the sky
As the clouds are swiftly passing by.
The leaves are falling from the trees
And I wish this wind was just a breeze.

There's not a bird in the sky at all
For now the rain has begun to fall.
All the clouds are turning to grey
While the children go in from play.

The rain stopped to just a sprinkle.
When the sun is out the leaves will tinkle.
The ponds and rivers are now all flooded,
And how the gardens and fields are muddied!

Now the sun is shining brightly,
But the rain is still falling lightly.
The sky has turned from grey to blue
And from the trees all the birds just flew.

The children are out and have begun to play
For the rest of this sunshiny day.

—Linda Teague.

THE LITTLE ROSE TREE

Every rose on the little tree
Is making a different face at me.

Some look surprised when I pass by,
And others droop, but they are shy.

These two whose heads together press,
Tell secrets I could never guess.

I wonder if the gardener knows,
Or if they call them just a rose.

—Sharon Nielsen.

A POET'S DREAM

A poet is a funny one.
He's not like you or me.
He dreams of castles in the air.
Of sunsets on the sea.
Of dolls in the shop windows,
Of statues in the park,
Of sweetest angels playing
Upon a golden harp.
Of fiery birds with golden plumes,
Of little caves with hidden rooms,
Of babbling brooks and swift, fast streams.
That's what's in a poet's dreams!

—Elizabeth Snite.

FUN IN AFTER-SCHOOL SPORTS

Our room is the 6th grade of Sunset School.

At school the boys and the girls have sports after school from 3:45 4:45.

The boys play after-school sports on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The girls play on Mondays.

This is only for the sixth and seventh grades.

The teacher for the girls is Miss Milstead.

The teachers for the boys are Mr. Rogers, Mr. Holman, and Mr. Castagnetto.

The girls had no party for Thanksgiving so Miss Milstead said we could have a party. Miss Milstead said we could have a skating party at Del Monte on December 9 from 9:30 to 11:30. We are to bring 30 cents to get in and 55 cents for shoe skates.

If a girl brings a penny for sports she gets a graham cracker.

When you get in the 6th or 7th grade, join afterschool sports.

—Beberly Prior.

MY BIRD ADVENTURES

I go east every summer to New Jersey, I had many bird adventures. My first one was a pond near our house. I saw the Green Heron and Great Blue Heron. In the trees nearby were some Great Blue Heron nests.

My second was with a friend of mine. We saw the Petrol Sandpiper, Least Sandpiper, Semipalmated Sandpiper, Killdeer and Mallard Duck.

My third adventure was to Phipps Beach. I saw the Semipalmated Sandpiper, Least Sandpiper and a pair of nesting Ospreys. I was lucky enough to get a look at the baby Osprey.

My fourth adventure was to Barniget City. I saw the Black Scimmer, Artic Tern, Common Tern, Rosses Gull, Laughing Gull, Ring Billed Gull, Herring Gull, Great Black Backed Gull and Ivory Gull.

My fifth bird adventure was the first Audubon of the year. We went down to the mouth of the Carmel River. I saw the Brown Pelican, Belted Kingfisher and Pintail Duck.

My sixth adventure was to Iris Canyon. It was an Audubon field trip. We saw the Audubon Warble, Oregon Junco, Great Horned Owl and Downey Woodpecker. My Seventh adventure was when I was walking to school. I saw the Red Breasted Sapsucker.

My next adventure was to the mouth of the Carmel River. I saw the Shovler Duck, Ruddy Duck Baldpate, Coot and Savanah Sparrow, and those are my bird adventures.! —Charles Agle.

Great news for your holiday entertaining! Over at the DOWN TOWN LIQUOR STORE, 317 Alvarado street in Monterey, you can get cases of I. W. Harper, Kentucky Tavern, Old Thompson and Glenmore at 10 per cent off! I. W. Harper is a bonded Kentucky straight bourbon, 100 proof, and the handsome new gift-decanter is included with the case. Kentucky Tavern is bonded, 100 proof; Old Thompson is a blend; and Glenmore Silver Label is a Kentucky straight bourbon, 90 proof. All cases quoted contain fifths. Incidentally, they do gift-wrapping, and will deliver cases. Open from 9 a.m. till 2 a.m., phone 2-5301. They have a complete line of liquors at THE DOWN TOWN LIQUOR STORE.

Spring bags are the news at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S this week. Perhaps it seems a little previous, but . . . spring is not really so far, and 'twould make a lovely Christmas gift. Straw they are; but the most elegant straw, most of it Swiss milan, but some Chinese milan. Honey-colored, sand, red, smart navy, brown, grass-green, natural . . . and the shapes are new, different, attractive, tres chic. Diagonal flaps, for instance, are a novelty, and so are elegant straws with straps. Indeed, we have never seen straws looking so elegant! And all have matching linings. The prices are attractively within reach, $2.95 and $3.95. But these are no ordinary straws . . . You could easily take them to the city.

Oh, but we were taken with what we saw at HARRIET DUNCAN'S the other day. We wish, we do wish, someone would give us one for a Christmas present. Just imagine nylon nightgowns that look like formals! For that matter, one could almost get away with wearing one as a formal . . . One we saw was in peacock blue. It was Grecian in line. It had permanent pleats. The same number came in black, in gray, in gold. . . . It looked like chiffon. It was diaphanous and ravishing! It cost $39.95. We saw some other exciting numbers, a little less expensive. One in a heavenly blue, at $16.95; another in lace and nylon (the neckline, oh!) for $25. (This was pink.) All with permanent pleats. Any man who wonders what to get his wife for Xmas should stray in to HARRIET DUNCAN'S . . . nylon hosiery, too, ($1.50 up) and nylon slips (from $6.95), gowns (from $8.95).

We rather think that anyone who has romance in their system will be carried away by the new shopment of cocktail dresses that has just arrived at MAXINE'S on Dolores street. We could hardly bear to leave the shop, for we saw ourselves floating diaphanously in one of those breathless dresses with a full frou-frou ballet-type skirt in marquisette . . . tangerine , and mink . . . appliqued with the most charming things in black velvet studded with rhinestones. The tops are black velvet, tight-fitting, oh so flattering! We thought we were going to our first ball again! And then there's a strapless black velvet with white faille around the top, a little jacket of white faille, a permanent pleated silk crepe with a Grecian top, velvet bands, a tiny little velvet bolero . . . lots of cocktail dresses in lace!

There are some terribly intriguing scarves in THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP in Monterey this week. Pure silk, light as gossamer, the designs are photographed. The effect is not only unique, but amazingly and unexpectedly beautiful. Dogs, seagulls, kittens, one with dogs and cats, another of champagne glasses, they're subtle, distinctive, very well done and the total design is pleasing. Background colors are black, midnight blue, cocoa, beige. And we were greatly taken not only with the kittens (very fetching), but the dog called Champion. The younger set would like the scarf depicting their favorite movie stars . . .

Oh, and while you're in Monterey, be sure to go into the POOR SCHOLAR BOOKSHOP near the post office. There's a whole children's room, and they have the $1.25 classics, beautifully illustrated, including all ye old enchanted titles; and all 38 of the Oz books ($2). For the little children they have such fascinating toys as The Big Book of Fire Engines (pictures of big, bright-red fire engines) and The Big Book of Cowboys, and Disney's Cinderella, and the Pooh Books, Stevenson's Child's Garden of Verse, religious books, too. For tiny tots, there are books in cloth.

Speaking of the kiddies, Santa Claus has arrived at HOLMAN'S DEPARTMENT STORE, and he'll be there from now until Christmas from 1 to 5 every day except Thursday when it's 1 until 9. Take the youngsters to see him. He has arrived complete with sleigh on the third floor; the children can talk to him, tell him what they want for Christmas. He gives little gifts—candy, fruit, apples, for he has his sack with him, of course.

Incidentally, in case the kiddies haven't decided what they want for Christmas, take them over to the toy department, but we warn you it will be a case of love at first sight if the boys find the electric train, beautiful, intricate, mechanical, complicated; lots of cars, a big black engine . . . equipped to handle freight and passengers, and lots of tracks, signal towers, brakemen, a train station, railroad signs—in short the works. There's a delightful circus set, by the way; horses, a tent, trapeze artists, elephants, giraffes, etc. . . . And the girls are likely to fall for the dolls, little ones with silk dresses (bouffant skirts) . . .

There are the most elegant bedroom slippers in at HOLMAN'S BOOTERY on Alvarado street in Monterey. By Daniel Greene, they're reasonably priced, range from $4.50 to $6. One fetching number (very feminine) comes in white or black satin, and it's lined with shell-pink, has an elasticized, sling-type heel (easy to slip on), and open toes. Then there's the Pow-Pow! This unique slipper is made of felt, looks just like a moccasin, has a big fringe. Red, sand, or blue. . . . Very comfortable and warm; has a sole of piano felt. And then the "quilties," in black or royal blue satin; and the intriguing black satin ballerinas. . . . Give her a pair for Christmas!

Furthermore, Miss Griffin has just received a shipment of British Center Books. Fiction and non-fiction, many are hard to get in American titles. Very reasonably priced. Books on the ballet, on fashion, on tropical birds. (all very nicely illustrated) might easily solve the Christmas gift problem.

In at STALLING'S STAMP SHOP they have everything to delight the stamp collector's heart for Christmas—stamp albums ($1 to $14), stock books (50 cents to $8.50), mint sheet albums (25 cents to $10.30), cover albums ($5 to $13), packets ($10 to $12.50), catalogues ($3.50), and magnifying and reading glasses (60 cents to $4.50). They have a large assortment of both United States and foreign stamps. Incidentally, if you don't know what to give, why not a gift certificate? $1, $5, $10, and they can get what they want.

Here's news for dog lovers! Something entirely new on the market is the Ever-Covering Bed for dogs. It's especially fixed so that the dog is always covered. In at JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE, they're ideal for the short-haired dog who gets so terribly cold at night. Incidentally, the Ever-Covering Bed is equipped with a separate zippered front which has windows so that it can be used for a carrying case. Comes in all colors, can be ordered in any size. Lined with warm, attractive plaid. Designed by a dachshund breeder, they're a wonderful antidote for colds, pneumonia, flu. . . . JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE has Xmas dog stockings in now, too, and a new supply of toys, some never been seen before.

R. Ellis Roberts To Give Reading At St. James Church

R. Ellis Roberts, well-known British author, lecturer and critic, will give a poetry and prose reading Friday evening, December 15, at the Social Hall of St. James Episcopal Church in Monterey. The reading, which will be devoted to literature appropriate to the Christmas season, begins at 8 o'clock. The church is located at 362 Pacific street.

Mr. Roberts, who has lived in Carmel for the past 10 years, first came to this country to lecture on English writers at Eastern universities. Formerly he had made regular broadcasts for the B.B.C.

The readings will take about an hour, and tea and coffeé will be served. During the evening, there will be a collection for the work of the St. James Altar Guild.

TWO BOBS PLAN COUNTRY CLUB

The Two Bobs, Bob Robinson and Bob Mills of the Carousel, are opening a country club next spring. They purchased the John Morse ranch two miles above the Carousel, and will have swimming pools, tennis courts, stables, etc.

To be called the Carmel Valley Country Club, it will open April 1.

Dinosaur Monument, Grand Teton Slides To Be Shown Monday

C. Edward Graves will show Kodachrome slides from a trip taken in 1950 to Grand Teton National Park to the Photography Appreciation Class of Carmel Adult School at Sunset Auditorium on December 11 at 8 p.m.

In addition to the Grand Teton scenes, there will be pictures taken in the White River National Forest in Colorado and Dinosaur National Monument in Utah, taken during the same summer.

Graves is nationally recognized for his beautiful Kodachromes of geological formations, flora and fauna national parks and monuments, which are used in college geology and botany classes. Sets of most of the national park slides are in the Library of Congress with his written commentary on file.

The public is invited to attend the local showing free.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their pocketbooks

There's been a lot of talk in recent weeks about "the buying power of the dollar"—past, present and future.

We can't foretell the future—but we can tell you this right now:

You'll look a long way before you'll find a car that offers as much for the money as you can get in a 1950 Buick.

Close to half a million of these cars have been built and sold this year.

Close to half a million people have checked their features and prices against the field—and decided they'd better buy Buick.

As to prices—they start down below some sixes. And whether you price the SPECIAL, the SUPER or the ROADMASTER, you'll find, on a cents-per-pound basis, that few other cars can touch them for value.

And this is for sure! When it comes to performance—ride—the way they handle and hold the road—and thrifty use of fuel and oil—Buicks have never been finer.

That's another way of saying that coil springs on all four wheels—Dynaflow*—torque-tube drive—and Buick's high-compression, high-economy Fireball power produce an out-of-this-world combination.

So if you want your dollars to do extra duty—the time to act is now.

Look at the price tags—look at the features—sample the power and thrill that you get for your money—and you'll know what we mean.

Look at the Typical Delivered Prices on 1950 Buicks

MODEL 46D — Buick SPECIAL 4-passenger Sedanet with de luxe trim — $2196

MODEL 41D (Illustrated) — Buick SPECIAL 6 passenger 4-door Sedan with de luxe trim — $2280

MODEL 56R — Buick SUPER 6-passenger 2-door Riviera — $2447

MODEL 72R — Buick ROADMASTER 6-passenger 4-door Riviera Sedan — $3995

Optional equipment, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges. All prices subject to change without notice.

Jane Coughlin To Wed Dec. 23

Jane Marie Coughlin, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Coughlin of Carmel, will be married on Saturday, December 23, to Floyd Alan Fredrickson at the Carmel Mission.

Jane Coughlin is well-known in Carmel, for she attended grade-school here and graduated from Carmel High School. She is now in her senior year at San Jose State.

Mr. Fredrickson, who is in his senior year at Stanford law school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Fredrickson of Portland, Oregon.

Last Saturday, Jane gave a luncheon at the Pine Inn for her bridesmaids, and her maid of honor, Mary Agnes Fortier. Mrs. Sue Henricks, Nancy Anderson and Margaret Tyler were among the bridesmaids present at the luncheon.

On Saturday night, her friends surprised Jane with a shower. The shower was given by Sue Hendricks and Nancy Anderson, but they had it at the Coughlin residence. Old friends who had moved away from Carmel, came for the re-union as well as her many friends here.

Party For Volunteer Firemen

At the Monday night meeting of the Carmel Highlands Association, the date was set for the big party and open house honoring the Volunteer Firemen and the Firemen's Auxiliary. The party will be on Wednesday night, December 20, at the Fire House, and all Highlands residents are welcome to come.

Bishop Winfred Ziegler was the one who originally suggested that Highlands should express their appreciation to the people who have served as Volunteer Firemen and so generously given of their time and services during the past ten or fifteen years.

Everyone contributed generously to the party-fund when the hat was passed at the Monday meeting, and Mrs. Alfred S. Balsam, chairman of the party-committee, was delighted by the spirited enthusiasm with which people have responded to the affair.

There will be square-dancing, refreshments and games at the gala open house, and preceedings will start at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Russell Williams is in charge of refreshments, Mrs. Malcolm Millard and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams are handling entertainment, and Mrs. William Ritschel, Mrs. T. J. Hudson and Mrs. Ada Johnson are on the decorations committee. Mrs. Hal Boyd and Mrs. Russel Catron will take care of the invitations.

Colonel Andrews, Instructor

Col. Francis J. Andrews of Carmel has been named to be one of a group of nine instructors for the Command and General Staff courses at the Presidio of San Francisco during January, February and March. The courses will be given under the supervision of California Military District headquarters at the Presidio.

Micaela du Casse Here

Micaela du Casse got back from New York Saturday with her two little girls, Jeanne and Monique, and will spend the winter with her mother, Mrs. Elsie Martinez on Carmel Point. She went to New York two months ago to meet her husband, Ralph du Casse, who was returning from Europe, and she had a wonderful time going to art-exhibits, the Sadler Wells Ballet, the opera, etc. Originally she had planned to spend the winter in New York where Mr. du Casse is doing some specialized study with Hans Hoffman, but the winter looked grim, snow and slush lay in the streets and she began to sigh for California.

Mrs. du Cassee and the children will remain here until the spring when Mr. du Casse will join them, and they will return to their Piedmont home.

Mimi Townsend To Wed

Mary Ellen Townsend, known to her friends as Mimi, will wed Lt. Dale Schermerhorn on Saturday, December 16. The wedding will be at St. John's Chapel at Del Monte, to be followed by a reception at the home of Mimi's parents, Col. and Mrs. George L. Townsend of Pebble Beach.

Mimi attended the Douglas School and graduated from the Virginia Intermont College in Bristol, Virginia. Lt. Schermerhorn, who is stationed at the Naval School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Schermerhorn of Hazelton, Iowa.

Mrs. W. D. Powell, the wife of Brig. General William D. Powell, will give a cocktail party for Mimi at her residence at Camino del Monte and Serra on December 12. The guests will bring gifts which Mrs. Powell will hand on the gay modernistic copper Christmas tree decorated with green ornaments and streamers.

A.A.U.W. Section Meetings

The Afternoon Book Section of the Association of American University Women will hold a section meeting on Tuesday, December 12, at 2 p.m. at the home of Miss Mabel Stark. Her house is called Sunshine Cottage, and it is on north Camino Real at Fourth. Miss Stark will review Kon-tiki, which is Thor Heyerdahl's account of the adventures of six men who crossed the Pacific on a raft.

The Arts and Crafts Section is having no meeting this month inasmuch as they assumed the responsibility for the Christmas party Wednesday night.

The Afternoon Bridge and Canasta Group will not meet this month.

The Evening Book Section will meet, however, on Tuesday, December 12, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ted Durein, on Lazaro Drive on the Carmel Mesa. Phone 7-4836 for directions. This meeting will be their Christmas party meeting, and all members are asked to bring brief quotations on the subject of the Christmas season.

The Recent Graduates Group will meet on Thursday, December 14, at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Ferguson on North Carmelo at Fourth. Members may phone 7-3926 for directions.

The Transportation Chairman for the group is Mrs. Verne Williams who may be reached at Monterey 5-3386 if anyone desires transportation or if she has transportation to offer. This meeting is to be an informal one in which members are planning to gift-wrap a layette for a needy family as a Christmas present. Each member is asked to bring Christmas wrapping paper and ribbon.

Carmel Woman's Club Tea

The Carmel Woman's Club combined a tea honoring 32 new members with a musical program at their meeting Monday, December 4. Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, Club President, thanked Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston for the club decorations, and then announced that the club is planning to sponsor a Fashion Show and Dessert Bridge at the club house Friday, February 2, at 1 p. m. It will be for the benefit of the Carmel Youth Center.

Another activity will be assisting the YMCA in serving family suppers Sunday evening to service men. Mrs. F. E. Naftzger, chairman, is to be in charge of the January buffet.

Mrs. C. W. Peterson, chairman of the Card Section, announced the Christmas party to be given by the card section December 11 from 1:00 until 4:00. Her assistants will be Mrs. William Heathorne, Mrs. H. M. Lansdowne, Mrs. S. T. Hughes, and Mrs. Fenton Grigsby.

In addition to a tree and gifts, there will be bridge-games, progressive and otherwise, and canasta. Tea and coffee will be served along with sandwiches and Chrismas cookies.

Mrs. Vaughn thanked Miss Sophie Burgdorff for making the corsages which had been given to the new members, and then presented Mrs. Barbara Murphy, program chairman, who in turn introduced the entertainers, Gladys Steele, the well-known diseuse, and Carl Hague, Norwegian tenor.

The program consisted of Norwegian songs, Christmas songs and monologues by Gladys Steele, including Ogden Nash's To a Guest Towel.

The tea honoring the new members was in charge of Mrs. Gilbert Campbell, chairman, who was assisted by Mrs. J. O. Handley, Mrs. E. T. Patee, Mrs. James Burgess, Mrs. Hilton Gable and Mrs. Della Williams. Mrs. Sinclair and Mrs. P. Y. Preble poured.

The next meeting of the Club, following the Christmas Card Party December 11, will be January 8, 1951. Kent Roberts will speak, the address is entitled: The World is Looking at Us.

The following new members were welcomed into the Carmel Woman's Club December 4: Mesdames Albert R. Thompson, John L. Andrews, Gerrit V. Henry, John Watt King, H. E. Odell, Clarence Postelwaite, H. T. Seipel, John Sherwood, Carroll S. Stoddard, Henry Hughes, Paul Coleman, Morton Patterson, Edith Needham, Stanley Moore, Clarence Galt, Philipine Cecelius, Etta Stackpole, Minerva Brotherton, Saller Bingham, Florence B. Elliott, Elizabeth Reid, W. T. Seawell, Grenville Gate Howard, Roderic O'Connor, Daniel L. Gray, Mabel Clair Stark, Edward Graham, Emeline P. Parker, L. C. Braley, Miss Edith Duncan and Miss Lucy M. Mills.

Elizabeth Ryland Engaged

Elizabeth Ryland, popularly known as Betty, announced her engagement to William Tornquist at the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority house in Berkeley Monday, November 27. No wedding date has as yet been set, as her fiance is with the Merchant Marine.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ryland of Carmel, Betty graduated from Carmel High School, then went to the University of Oregon. Later she transferred to the University of California where she is majoring in interior decoration.

Mr. Turnquist is the son of Mrs. W. H. Turnquist of Menlo Park and of the late Captain W. H. Turnquist, U.S.N.R. He graduated from the University of California last spring, and he is on duty with the Merchant Marine while waiting for his commission.

Music At Wurzmann's

Friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann Sunday night to hear the program Mrs. Wurzmann will play next Sunday for the Monterey U.S.O. and the A.W.V.S. The A.W.V.S. concert will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson on Carmel Point.

Renee Wurzmann will share the program with her mother. In between the first and second half of the concert, she will dance two solos.

Yvonne Gardner Weds In Carmel

Yvonne Killick Gardener became the bride of James D. Callahan in a candlelight ceremony Saturday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Smallridge of Carmel.

The bride wore a long blue crepe gown with a lace mantilla of the same color over a Spanish comb, and she carried white orchids, and a prayer book with streamers of bouvardia.

Mrs. Philip G. Wilkinson of Monterey was the matron of honor. She wore an aqua print with long aqua gloves, and carried a bouquet of gardenias.

The best man was James K. McKinley of Fort Ord.

Lt. Col. Daniel W. Stevens, Fort Ord Chaplain, performed the ceremony in front of the great fireplace which was banked with hydrangeas and lilies.

The reception, which was attended by more than 60 guests, was held in the patio, and the three-tiered wedding cake which stood in the center of the festive table was surrounded by masses of pink geraniums.

Following a short honeymoon in the Big Sur, the newlyweds returned to their home in Pacific Grove.

The new Mrs. Callahan has been active in little theatre work, and appeared in Stage Door and The Winslow Boy.

The groom, who is the son of Mrs. M. J. Callahan of Manhattan Beach and the late Michael James Callahan, was a first lieutenant with the 4th Infantry Division during the last war.

ORDINANCE NO. 120 N.S.

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING THE SALARIES OF CERTAIN OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA.

The city council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Section 67, Division 4, Part II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 67. The salary of the Chief of Police of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby fixed at the rate of $350.00 per month. In addition to his monthly salary the Chief of Police shall receive a car allowance of $35.00 per month."

Section 2. Section 68, Division 4, Part II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 68. All Police Officers of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall be appointed by the City Council of said City upon the recommendation of the Chief of Police.

All regular Police Officers shall serve a probationary period of six months at a salary which shall not exceed $265.00 per month. On the expiration of such probationary period the Chief of Police shall recommend the retention or dismissal of such probationary officer as a regular Police Officer of said City. Each regular Police officer shall receive a salary of $285.00 per month; provided, however, that beginning with the first day of January following his appointment and continuing for a period of three years, each regular Police Officer shall receive a salary increase of $5.00 per month.

In addition to the regular Police Officer the Carmel Police Department shall have a Desk Clerk and a Senior Desk Clerk. The salary of the Desk Clerk is hereby fixed at $240.00 per month, and the salary of the Senior Desk Clerk is hereby fixed at not more than $285.00 per month.

All members of the Carmel Police Department, including the Chief of Police, Desk Clerk and Senior Desk Clerk shall receive a uniform allowance of $5.00 per month."

Section 3. Section 69, Division 4, Part II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby amended to read as follows:

plan, is in for some bad times. There are several such gloomy projects that have been tossed into my lap. Will I please come and dig the owners out of their chaos. This means that splendid material, must be either moved or destroyed. It is a ticklish job to transplant full grown shrubs and trees, so many noble trees or shrubs must go into the discard. Windows must be whacked free of intruding vines, and even front doors must be released from the grip of some monster.

If only new home-makers were willing to start with young growth instead of mature flora. I can bet dollars to doughnuts that the one gallon can, with rooted shrubs, will in time beat the five fallon to growth and maturity. The younger you start your garden, the sooner things will take root and be on their way. I don't believe in spending a bank roll in starting; take your time and study out your own needs, and always keep the future in mind. And Above all, don't dig a five cent hole for a five dollar plant. Make it a five dollar hole for a five cent plant.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, December 10, is "God the Preserver of Man," for which the Golden Text will be chosen from Second Samuel: "The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; the God of my rock; in him will I trust: he is my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour" (22:2, 3).

Other citations comprising the sermon from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include the following:

Isaiah 52:7: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!"

Science and Health: "The days of our pilgrimage will multiply instead of diminish, when God's kingdom comes on earth: for the true way leads to Life instead of to death, and earthly experience discloses the finity of error and the infinite capacities of Truth, in which God gives man domination over all the earth" (p. 202).

Work Center Totals $20,000 In Sales For Local Craftsmen

During the first six months of operation the Carmel Work Center, which was founded to help local craftsmen in selling creations, has steadily progressed.

The work of local craftsmen is beginning to be distributed all over the United States, and one order has come in from South America.

On July 1, a store was opened in the Seven Arts Court under the management of Mrs. Lee Aydelot to make creations available to the residents of Carmel. On September 1, arrangements were made with the Del Monte Properties Company to open a store in the Pebble Beach shopping area so that residents there and visitors to the Lodge could become familiar with these fine products. This shop is being run in conjunction with the Art Gallery and is in charge of Harriet Weill. On November 1, at which time the renovation of the Gutierrez Adobe to its original condition was completed by the Monterey Foundation, arangements were made to have a shop in Monterey under the name of Monterey Peninsula Crafts Shop. This brings the work of local craftsmen to the people of Monterey, and the shop is in charge of Dorothy Weston. The shop is constantly holding private showings of artists who work with water colors.

All of these shops are receiving excellent support from the community, and the craftsmen are appreciative of the good cooperation.

On November 10, mail order catalogues, showing the work of local craftsmen, were mailed to 15,000 people over the United States who had visited Carmel during the past year. This attractive catalogue was well received, as is evidenced by the 20 to 30 mail orders being received each day.

The craftsmen have cooperated in making products available, and have received over $20,000 in payment for work delivered to the Carmel Work Center since July 1. This added income for members of the community should steadily expand as the products become more and more famous nationally. Over 25 craftsmen have brought their work to the Seven Arts Court Shop to make this progress possible, and more craftsmen are even now looking forward to further markets for their products, the center feels that Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula can well be proud of their craftsmen whose products are gaining country wide fame.

The management of the Carmel Work Center told The Pine Cone that it is very grateful to the craftsmen and the community for their help, interest and understanding of its efforts.

Any craftsmen living on the Monterey Peninsula wishing to have his work displayed in the shop will receive every consideration from Mr. Douglas Fisher, who is located at the Carmel Work Center Shop in the Seven Arts Court.

Carmel Youth Center Adopts Constitution

A constitution, written and drawn up entirely by the executive committee, was adopted last Monday night at the regular meeting of the Carmel Youth Center.

The constitution outlines the aims of the organization, those who are eligible to attend, officers, committees, uses of the club and duties of the officers.

Among the rules and regulations are: a ban against any gambling involving money; smoking allowed only in the snack bar; food only in the snack bar and a strict rule against anyone causing a disturbance. Three suspensions on such a charge will mean permanent suspension from the club. A limit of one guest per member is allowed.

A civic committee has been appointed and members are Frans Doelman, chairman, Linda Bain, Ken Wightman, Legare McNeil and Sye McCloud. Members of this committee will attend council meetings and assist whenever possible in local civic affairs.

Lester Sowell

Word was received here Saturday of the death of Pfc. Lester Irving Sowell, 18, who was killed in action in Korea on November 29. The young man was born in the Boronda adobe in Monterey and was a member of a well known pioneer Peninsula family.

He is survived by his father, T/Sgt. Jack Sowell, USMC, and his mother, Mrs. Koseph Trimar, who is now in Japan; his grandparents, Percy Sowell of Monterey and Mrs. Percy Sowell of Pacific Grove.

His grandparents on his mother's side are Lester Davis of Pacific Grove and Mrs. Tulita Westfall of Carmel, well known artist here.

BODY IDENTIFIED

The body of a man discovered November 24 in a lonely cabin near Rocky Cove, south of Big Sur, was identified as Leo Bruce Feller by the coroner's office. He was from Cleveland and was a transient worker. He was last employed by the Garin Labor camp at Soledad. The coroner said that death was probably caused by starvation.

Mausita Kreisler Is New Owner Of Browse Around Shop

Mausita Kreisler, who has lived in Carmel with her husband, Walter Kreisler, since 1946, is the new owner of the Browse-Around Music Shop which is kitty-corner from the post office on Dolores street. She hopes to make the Browse-Around an intimate music shop where people can linger among the records and sheet music, listening to as many selections as they want to with the help of music-girl "Hedy" Steudler.

One of the new features of the shop is that there is a seven-day order service on records, phonographs, record players, small radios and even ukuleles. Sheet music and instruction courses for all instruments are available to teachers and students.

Orginally from Los Angeles, where Mr. Kreisler was with the American Automoble Association, the Kreislers are making Carmel their permanent residence, and Mr. Kreisler is the Carmel representative of the A.A.A. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kreisler are members of the Church of the Wayfarer, and Mrs. Kreisler is the president of the Peninsula Division of the United Council of Church Women.
